PUBLIC NOTICE & DISCLAIMER

The information hereby disclosed in this prospectus is to be referenced for informational purposes only and should not be construed as the basis of a contract between individuals / students and the faculty, staff and administrators of the program.

While the faculty, staff and administrators of the Muqaddima program do not currently anticipate any unforeseen changes in the existing mode of operation, as outlined in this version of the prospectus, the staff still retain the unreserved right to implement appropriate and necessary updates in response to any direct change in the operating circumstances both internal and external. Although some urgent changes may require immediate implementation without any prior notice to individuals / students enrolled onto the certificate or diploma programs, the administrative staff shall endeavour to inform all students of any such changes (major or minor), as early as possible.

In the event in which a change is made to the curriculum, details of such amendments will be disclosed and published through an official email communication sent to each individual enrolled onto any of our programs. The update shall be communicated within 48 hours of the change having been implemented.

It is recommended that students regularly check their inbox and read through any email communication that is sent to them from our offices in order to keep abreast of any program developments and to avoid missing out on important updates.

We encourage all prospective students to carefully review this document prior to submitting their applications for the Muqaddima certificate or diploma programs.

In the wider interest of the global community, this document will employ the conventional US spelling (e.g., program instead of programme)

Student Testimonials

"The Muqadimma Diploma Program is the perfect course for the Muslim who seeks to understand their past in a modern setting and to think ahead about the future of the Muslims.

The instructors have created an atmosphere of comfort and respect where every student is encouraged to participate and be heard.

One of the most delightful aspects of the Muqaddimah Program is the atmosphere of camaraderie amongst the global students who were brought together from all walks of life by their love for Islamic History and the rich heritage of the Muslim ummah"

Amina, London

"My ambition is to establish a community project for Muslims in Ireland; the Muqaddima Program is a great resource and preparation for me. I look forwards to launching a project exploring the historic ties between Ireland and the Islamic world"

Abdel-Samad, Dublin

"Both me and my son have enrolled onto the Muqaddima Program as a way to strengthen our bond while engaging in a shared project that we are both passionate about. I am very impressed by the content and delivery"

Riad, Riyadh

"Through this program, I am better equipped and more confident to share my history with friends and family, most importantly, I will be better prepared to teach my children their proper history InshaAllah"

Shaz, Qatar

"This program is a growing Islamic History powerhouse. I appreciate the fact that the entire program is taught and delivered by Muslim instructors, which is not typically the case in mainstream institutes of higher learning. The future belongs to storytellers"

ANNUAL PROGRAM & PACKAGE OVERVIEW

This program offers students all four taught subjects with an additional four components including live events and workshops as well as projects assignments and mentoring.

SUBJECTS AND MODULES

This Program is comprised of four distinct yet integral subjects, that are all based on the principles and methods outlined by Ibn Khaldun in his famous work al-Muqaddima.

The core subjects are as follows:

1. Ibn Khaldun's al-Muqaddima: A critical study and analysis of the complete book
2. Muslim Historiography: A detailed study of the subjects, themes and methodologies
3. Muslim Dynasties: A study of successive dynasties between the 7th - 14th centuries
4. Seerah Studies: A historical treatment of the Prophet Muhammad's ﷺ life

The additional subjects are as follows:

1. Islamic Economics: Banking and Finance (The Halal Way)
2. Political Science: Political systems and Islamic Politics
3. Sociology: A critical study of societies (Muslim & Non-Muslim)
4. Languages: EU-Certified Arabic (A1-B1) and Turkish (A1-A2) language classes

The optional subjects are as follows:

1. Islam In The World: How did Islam spread around the world (Africa, Asia, Americas etc)
2. Erotology: Study of Erotic Arts & Relationships (According to Islamic Teachings)
3. Linguistics: Study of the Science of Languages

Each subject is comprised of structured 9-10 modules, with each module lasting for 90 Minutes. Students can participate in the live sessions or watch pre-recorded modules at any time.

Live sessions are held on two weekends each month (Saturday and Sunday) from 11:00 am to 4:00 pm with breaks, so studying will not interfere with your regular weekday work.

In cooperation with the Islamic faculty of Novi Pazar in Serbia (Sanjak)

The Faculty of Islamic Studies in Novi Pazar (Sandžak province in Serbia) is a higher education institution founded by the Islamic Community offering recognised diplomas all around the world, and registered by the competent ministries in the Republic of Serbia, as well as higher education institutions of the Rijaset of the Islamic Community in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The Faculty of Islamic Studies was originally founded as the “Islamic Pedagogical Academy in Novi Pazar” (12 May, 2001), but later renamed to “Faculty of Islamic Studies” (2005). It was created on the basis of the religious and educational institutions in Sandžak, which were established during the time of the Ottomans as early as 1461!

While Bosniaks in Sandžak have survived for a hundred years despite permanent attacks on their religious, national and cultural identity, this Faculty aims to preserve religious knowledge, and to continue an age-old tradition that is unique in Europe and in the world!

The Faculty’s teaching and scientific-research in Islamic and social sciences have lead to diplomas and academic degrees, improving Islamic thought, knowledge and education.

OUR MISSION AND VISION

Our mission is to Educate, Elevate and Empower our students. Enabling them to cultivate the skill to read and comprehend Islamic history according to the principles outlined by Ibn Khaldun in his seminal work al-Muqaddima, while also building a firm foundation for the ongoing study and analysis of Islamic history in general.

Through the Muqaddima Program, we are reviving the authentic voice of Islamic History by introducing our students to the core texts, foundational principles as well as the traditional and contemporary research methods necessary to attain both a sound and appropriate comprehension and interpretation of Islamic History, its study and conveyance.

THE GLOBAL MUSLIM SCHOLAR TRAINING

A structured annual study course, that has been designed and developed in response to the growing and emerging demand for professional study into Islamic History and Humanities.

It serves the needs of individuals looking to study the world's most authoritative work on Historiography (Ibn Khaldun's Al-Muqaddima), while acquiring skills and competencies in meaningful research, interpretation and analysis of Islamic History, Sociology, Islamic Economics, and much more!

STUDENT RESOURCES

Our programs are delivered online, weekly classes are streamed via a secure conferencing platform, all sessions are recorded and available for replay via our student learning platform.

Students enrolled onto the Muqaddima Program are provided with the following resources:

1. Course Texts: Copies of the core study-texts are provided to students.
2. Course Folder: Containing the full program timetable and an extended reading list.
3. Learning Platforms: Unlimited access to our online forum House of Wisdom (HOW) with additional resources, study material and posts.
4. Private Community: Access to a private chat group where discussions and inquiries into taught topics and projects can be explored in a closed group environment.

Muqaddima Brunch: Our annual Muqaddima brunch for an opportunity to meet our instructors and fellow students, hosted in London.

STUDENT PROJECTS

Students are required to complete a project as part of their assignment. Participants are also provided support through the Mentorship scheme which entitles participants to seek direct assistance and guidance (project based) from an assigned mentor at any time during their studies.

Students are able to select any of the following project categories by which to deliver a subject, theme or topic of their choice.

1. Publications: Preparing Manuscripts, Digital Books, Articles and Essays
2. Education: Developing Islamic History Curriculum, Public Lectures and Courses
3. Multimedia: Creating Websites, Blogs, Documentaries, Podcasts and YouTube

Students are required to decide on a specific topic of historic import which they can then transform into a project via any one of the above-mentioned media / mediums. The object of this assignment is to transform learning into tangible and productive output, thereby training and preparing our students to transition from passive learning into active production and participation in the creation of new learning resources and opportunities.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

The Global Muslim Scholar Training program is designed to revive the lost tradition and study of Islamic History and Historiography. Our team of dedicated researchers and academics is committed to the effective and positive development of each student enrolled onto the program. We monitor and measure the outcome of our programs by following the PEOPLE framework, as outlined below:

1. PROVIDE an immersive and interactive learning environment and community through which students will acquire a thorough and guided experience in the study, analysis and interpretation on one of most seminal and authoritative classical texts every written on the subject of Islamic History - Ibn Khaldun's al-Muqaddima.
2. EQUIP students to cultivate adequate and life-long comprehension skills, critical competencies and proficiency in applying the proper modes and methods for learning and unpacking Islamic History as outlined in the principles of classical Islamic Historiography.
3. OFFER students a wealth of knowledge and insights pertaining to the earliest developments in Islamic History, Historiographers and Chroniclers, up until the medieval age. Students will acquire knowledge of seminal and authoritative authors and texts in classical Islamic History and its sciences.
4. PREPARE students to conduct their own original research assignments and inquiries by teaching them the appropriate means by which to qualify various sources of historical information, the limitations and varying methodologies, terminologies and nomenclature that are prevalent in the register of classical works on Islamic History and historiography.
5. LIBERATE our students from being limited and confined to the rigid, narrow and mostly outdated methods of learning about Islamic history as currently taught in many schools, colleges and universities worldwide. Our programs are designed to be interactive, meaningful and appropriate for a modern audience.
6. ENABLE Diploma level candidates to apply their learning experience directly towards an assignment that will culminate in the publication of an original research article or the development of an initiative that will convey some aspect of Islamic History and its sciences.

We intend to deliver all the above-mentioned through the effective delivery of programs and by educating, training and empowering students to not only learn how to read Islamic history but also how to analyse, interpret and convey it appropriately.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. What is the Global Muslim Scholar Training?

This is not in any way a religious program. Students will be taught the skills and abilities necessary to be able to read the classical texts of Islamic History, Sociology and the other subjects on offer. They are taught to contextualise the ideas and intellectual frameworks within which such texts were written by their authors, most notably – the Muqaddima by Ibn Khaldun. For Further Information see page 12

2. How many hours of study will be delivered each month?

The Certificate program is comprised of a 90 minute - session delivered once a month for the duration of the entire program, wherein students can select up to 9 subjects to study.

The Global Muslim Scholar Training is delivered two weekends per month, each individual session has a duration of 90 minutes.

3. Can students participate online / remotely?

All lessons are conducted online.

4. Will there be specific course texts for each subject?

Yes, there are core reading requirements for all of our subjects and the course book is included in the student resource pack that is sent to each student enrolled onto the Muqaddima Program.

5. How much homework will be assigned to students each month?

Homework will only be assigned to The Global Muslim Scholar Trainees. However, students enrolled onto any of our programs will be required to read and study the prescribed course texts prior and to follow every lesson, as specified by the instructors.

6. Are there part-time study programs?

The current programs are all part-time in nature.

7. Is this program delivered in Arabic, Urdu or Turkish?

OUR REFUND POLICY

CAN I GET A REFUND IF I CHANGE MY MIND BEFORE THE PROGRAM BEGINS?

Yes, all paying students who have enrolled onto any one of our programs but later decide to cancel their application within 14 calendar days after having made the initial payment - will be automatically eligible for a refund.

Please note that an administrative fee of £100 will be deductible from the total refund balance, in order to cover the cost of processing the reimbursement and the provision of physical learning resources

CAN I GET A REFUND AFTER THE PROGRAM BEGINS IN SEPTEMBER?

In such circumstances wherein a paying student decides to cancel their application at any time after the program has commenced (in October), they will

1. Not be entitled to a refund on the amounts already paid as part of the registration fees
2. However, if a refund is requested on additional payments (excluding the registration fees) before November 14th of the same academic year – then they will be entitled to a partial refund of 50% on any monies already paid.
3. Refunds are not granted in any form and under any circumstance wherein the paying student has already completed the entire program and later decides to request for a refund (regardless of whether the student was in attendance for every class or none of them).

Please note that changes in your personal and financial circumstances are not the responsibility of the Caldunian Online University and that the company is not liable for changes in your circumstances.

Please note that refunds are not granted if a student has been dismissed following written notice and a complete inquiry into the cause for dismissal.

Please note that refunds can only be requested by the applicant who made the original payment for the program. We are not authorised to make any payments to relatives, associates or acquaintances under any circumstance.

IS THERE AN APPEALS PROCEDURE?

Yes, in extenuating circumstances - appeals for a partial or complete refund may be accepted at the sole discretion of the Caldunian Online University, but only after a formal request for a refund has been submitted in full by the student and reviewed by the course administrative staff.

Appeals for refunds may be submitted directly via the following admissions@alMuqaddima.com
